By DAVUS. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Scotsman.—"The Black Squire" is undoubtedly a very clever novel, with plenty of interest apart from its political and ecclesiastical peculiarities."STONEDELL LODGE. By FREDERICK SPENCER BIRD, Author of "Harrington." 3 vols. 31s. 6d.OUR VICAR. By Wynter Frore KNIGHT, B.C.L. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.A MOUNTAIN DAISY. By Emily GRACE HARDING. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Scotsman.—"It is impossible to read 'A Mountain Daisy' without enjoyment."Morning Post.—"The charm which the story undoubtedly possesses arises from the contemplation of the life of a pure and lovable girl in its relation to those about her.....The author may be justly congratulated on a legitimate success."Sunday Times.—"It is always a treat in these days of sensation to come across a novel at once amusing and harmless, and 'A Mountain Daisy' unites these qualities. Without approaching to insipidity, it sets forth a healthy story of every-day life, which leads to some sufficiently interesting situations.....'A Mountain Daisy' cannot fail to prove a general favourite."Academy.—"It is entitled to the first place in order of merit."CUPID and the SPHINX. By Har- FORD FLEMING. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Academy.—"At once recalls 'A Nile Novel' to mind. Like that clever story, it is of American authorship, and its scene lies chiefly in Egypt, while its characters are Europeans and Americans."Athenæum.—"There is much freshness about 'Cupid and the Sphinx.' Though Cairo and the Nile are not quite new ground, they have not been much used by novelists, and Mr. Fleming shows that there is much to be made out of them.....When he can also write with vigour and good taste, as Mr. Fleming does, it follows that his book must have no small merit."Sunday Times.—"Mr. Fleming is to be congratulated upon having written an instructive and readable novel."Standard.—"The plot is quite sufficiently exciting, without being either improbable, or sensational."Spectator.—"We have Cairo, the Desert, and the Nile, instead of a Mayfair drawing-room or a country house; and there is a certain freshness and novelty about the characters."THE LADY of TREFERNE. By HARRIET S. HILL. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Athenæum.—"The reader will find much to please him in 'The Lady of Treferne.' As a simple narrative of half-a-dozen love stories, it is as well worth reading as most of its competitors for public favour."Court Circular.—"The plot of this story is well worked out, the writing is easy and fluent, and the novel, as a whole, is undoubtedly more attractive than the ordinary circulating library fiction."Scotsman.—"Very good work indeed, not merely because of its intrinsic excellence, but also from the many signs it bears of care and thought in the workmanship."VIOLET MORTIMER. By Frances NOBLE. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Athenæum.—"A girl in her teens could not do better than have recourse to readable and inoffensive stories like 'Violet Mortimer.'"MY FRIEND and MY WIFE. By HENRY JAMES GIBBS. 3 vols. 31s. 6d.Scotsman.—"Considerable power in the conception and delineation of various types of character is displayed in 'My Friend and My Wife.' The character of the hero is loftily conceived. Mr. Gibbs possesses some vigour of narrative, style, and knowledge of the world, and plenty of imagination."

DICTIONARY of MUSIC and MUSICIANS. Vol. I.

(A to IMPROMPTU.)

Edited by GEORGE GROVE, D.C.L.

To be completed in about 12 Quarterly Parts, price 3s. 6d. each.

Parts I. to VI. now ready.

"Up to this moment no work has been produced in dictionary or any other form to which that familiar abstraction, the 'general reader,' could refer for full and accurate information in regard to the lives of eminent composers, the history of musical instruments, the origin and gradual development of musical forms (such as the symphony and the sonata), the career of great singers, and so on. Such a work will be found in the DICTIONARY OF MUSIC AND MUSICIANS now being issued in parts under the editorship of Mr. George Grove."—Pall Mall Gazette.

"What is modestly called a 'Dictionary' might have fairly been entitled an 'Encyclopædia,' for the editor has included in his scheme everything that belongs to music, or is allied, or is even distantly related to it. It would be a great mistake to regard this work as useful only for purposes of reference. It is a collection of interesting and valuable articles on all kinds of musical subjects, which amateurs who take a genuine interest in the art they profess to love will read from beginning to end."—Daily News.

"We now take leave of this Dictionary, recommending it heartily to our readers as full of instruction and amusement."—Times.

"The editor has given us a book, or at least an instalment of a book, absolutely invaluable to English musicians."—Examiner.

(Third Thousand, with Letter from "One who has Lived in Zululand," reprinted, by permission, from the Times.)

Lord CARNARVON, in his speech in the House of Lords, March 25, said: "I will read two lines to your lordships from a book which has been recently published, by one of the prominent actors in South Africa, a very distinguished officer, than whom there is no one who better understands or appreciates the subject. I refer to Sir A. Cunyngame."

The Morning Post says:—"Sir Arthur Cunyngame's work needed no extraordinary circumstances to command for it popularity, for it consists of an admirable account of our Cape Colonies, based upon personal experience, combined with much information communicated by trustworthy residents. . . . It would be impossible to give any adequate idea of this valuable work in a necessarily brief review, but we are obliged to confess that it is about the most replete with useful information concerning our South African possessions of any we have yet read."

WATERTON'S WANDERINGS in SOUTH AMERICA.

New Edition, Edited, with Biographical Introduction and Explanatory Index, by the Rev. J. G. WOOD. Medium 8vo, with 100 Illustrations, cloth elegant, 21s. Uniform with "White's Selborne."

"This is a handsome volume, and admirers of Waterton's 'Wanderings' will be glad to see the book in a form so becoming. Mr. Wood, who is well known as a popular writer on natural history, shows an interest and enthusiasm which makes his pages attractive. . . . There are many interesting anecdotes in the biography; while, as for Waterton's work, it is well known to form one of the most fascinating records of a naturalist's wanderings ever written."—Pall Mall Gazette.

NOTES by a NATURALIST on the "CHALLENGER."

Being an Account of various Observations made during the Voyage of H.M.S. Challenger Round the World in 1872-76. By H. N. MOSELEY, F.R.S., Member of the Scientific Staff of the Challenger. In 8vo, with Maps, Coloured Plates, and Woodcuts, price 21s.

"This is certainly the most interesting and suggestive book, descriptive of a naturalist's travels, which has been published since Mr. Darwin's 'Journal of Researches' appeared more than forty years ago. That it is worthy to be placed alongside that delightful record of the impressions, speculations, and reflections of a master mind, is, we do not doubt, the highest praise which Mr. Moseley would desire for his book, and we do not hesitate to say that such praise is its desert."—Prof. E. DAISY MILLER, and other Stories. By Henry James,

Jr. 2 vols. 21s.

"Apart from the novelty of the subjects, which no doubt renders these stories exceptionally striking, the thoroughness of Mr. James's workmanship would win success, whatever he touched; as is proved by the 'Four Meetings,' the last story in the book, the conception of which is comparatively commonplace and hackneyed, while the writing is as delicate and the management of details as ingenious as anything can be. In the first two stories, on the other hand, it seems to us that Mr. James has shown a touch of that spirit of invention which is the essence of all fiction, and without which other qualities are comparatively useless."—Pall Mall Gazette.

The LAUGHING MILL; and other Stories.

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE. Crown 8vo, 10s. 6d.

"A volume of permanent value, and among recent books quite alone for subtle blending of individual and general human interest, poetic and psychological suggestion, and rare humour. . . . We cordially commend the stories to readers of all classes, hoping they will not pay the slightest attention to anyone who tells them beforehand they are wanting in human interest."—Contemporary Review.
